Parents Back to School

In week four our parents visited the classrooms after all the students were gone! As part of parent information nights, it was wonderful to see our parents sitting in chairs listening carefully to the teachers’ presentations. I wondered if they were day dreaming about their times at school! The information nights provided plenty of information about behaviour management, the curriculum, homework, specialist teachers and much more. My sincere gratitude to the teachers for their professionalism, dedication and living the vision of our school as we all journey together to make a difference!
