Mr Dog visits Prep – every dog has its day!

What a pleasant surprise at Prep! Mr Dog (not his real name) visited all the Prep students today – with his tail wagging, his tongue hanging out, his ears alert as the preps cheer with excitement. As Mr Dog settled now, he became accustomed to all the loving pats and rubs. Allowing children new opportunities to get involved and help out with pets is a great way to increase their understanding of responsibility. Handing off simple chores to your children, which are realistically obtainable for them, not only builds their self-confidence but reinforces independence! On this day, Mr Dog certainly enjoyed all the love in the world.
